

ALLEGIAN'T TEAMSTERS

Pilots United for Our Future

A Message From Your Organizing Committee

Fellow Allegiant Pilots:

We're sending this email to all of our colleagues to let you know that we have begun meeting with the Teamster Airline Division and Organizing Department to plan our campaign to win a strong, united pilots' union at Allegiant. Standing together, we can do this! Standing together, we can bargain with management on equal terms for a legally binding contract that addresses our issues and protects our interests. Standing together, we will also work proactively and cooperatively with the company to ensure we are profitable, professional, and safe, so as to make this a career airline for all employees.

In the coming weeks we will all be learning more about the Teamsters: who they are, what they represent, why they are the union for us and how they can help us achieve the changes we need and have earned. Check your mail and inbox often for the latest information about the Teamsters and our campaign. For starters, we know that the Teamsters Union is the most powerful union in North America. Its 1.4 million members stand together in support of each other and will do the same for us. Included in that number are more than 64,000 airline employees from all classes and crafts in the industry. Teamster contracts, including those for airline pilots, are among the leaders in setting standards for wages, benefits, job security and other issues across the airline industry. And because all Teamsters stand together across crafts, classes and industries, the Teamsters have more power at the bargaining table than most unions.

If you have any questions, send an email to allegiantpilots@teamster.org.

We hope that you will join us in standing together to build our union here at Allegiant. We will continue to stay in touch with everyone and be a source of information as we move forward.

In Solidarity,

The Allegiant Teamsters Pilots' Organizing Committee
