“Total Person Unionism”

Hosted by

Teamsters Local Union 745, Dallas, TX

May 14-16, 2024

“Total Person Unionism” was a concept developed by Teamster leaders Harold Gibbons and Ernest Calloway in the 1950s. The idea was to expand the union’s role in members’ lives outside of the workplace. Gibbons wanted to provide services for the “total person”, offering programs that would benefit members in all aspects of their lives: from the job into retirement and beyond.

This program will help current officers and agents create a similar “constituent services” program for their that will mirror Gibbons and Calloway’s vision.
